

Why AXF?

Our innovative community-based model uses Mumbai's unique co-existence to build bridges between educated, involved members of the urban middle class and students living in neighbourhood slums. Our Free Learning Centres hold daily classes in English, Mathematics and other Life Skills in the informal and refreshing environs of our public gardens.

Who we are

AXF is a 12A and 80G certified NGO with 20 Free Learning Centres across Mumbai. Our core central team builds our educational programs, establishes and manages our centres, sources funds from sponsors and donors and recruits as well as trains our volunteers.

Our centre teams, led by centre managers and staffed by over 700 volunteers, deliver our programs to over 2,000 students (1,400 online).

Our programs

AXF English and Mathematics

Our flagship program upskills and mentors students of grades 1 to 8 in an NCERT based English and Mathematics program.

Youth Engagement (YEP) and SSC program

We offer SSC and HSC coaching to students in grades 9 to 12 and source scholarships for meritorious first-generation learners. YEP also assists in development of other life skills to prepare students for the future.

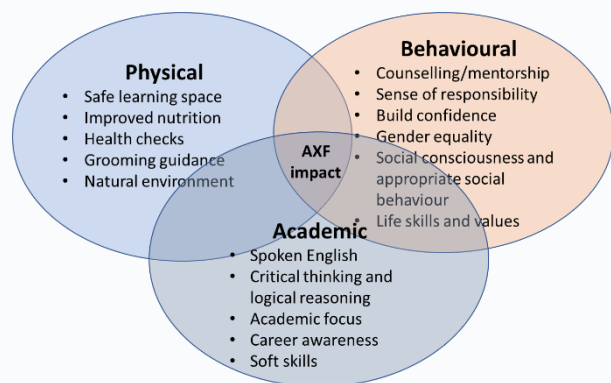

What motivates our volunteers

The satisfaction that comes from making a positive impact in the lives of their students, interaction with like-minded socially conscious people in the community and especially the joy and gratitude they receive every day from the children is the foundation for the bond our volunteers share with students and each other.

Our impact

We have designed our programs to make a holistic impact on all students. In addition to academics, we emphasise on bringing about a change in student behaviour and mindset through regular mentoring, discipline, extra-curricular activities and excursions that broaden their horizon.

Physical well-being is essential for all-round development. Therefore we have built in a daily nutritional snack into our centre routine, along with periodic health checks and guidance.

Our journey, until now....and beyond
